all but ruled the Stillman case out of court yesterday. First he decreed inadmissible the "hysterical confession written to James A. Stillman in 1918 by Mrs. Stillman before the birth of her son Guy. Then he threw out the letters alleged to have been written to Mrs. Stillman by Ferd Beauvais. And finally he reviewed the charges and counter charges and admonished both sides that if the allegations against both can be sustained "time, labor and the expenditure of money" may be saved by realizing that it will be impossible for either to obtain a divorce

The Justice's opinion granted to Mrs. Stillman alimony of $7,500 a month, or $90,000 a year; $85,000 for counsel fees and $12,500 for expenses. This sets new record for allowances in a divorce $20,000. So said a jury in the Circuit Court to-day, in returning a verdict for that amount in favor of James Godfrey, 13, against the Power and Light Company.

At a picnic James, with other boys, climbed a tree to gather walnuts. He came in contact with an electric wire, and one side of his face was burned, leaving a permanent scar. The chief element of damage about which centred the claim was that the boy had lost his youthful smile.

The boy, face wan and drawn by the scar, sat through the hearing without attempting to smile. On the witness stand he was asked to smile. The effort was a puckering of the lips and a melancholy drawing of the face. A physician testified that the smile muscle in his cheek had been bound by the scarred tissue above, and the jury at once returned its verdict.

Briefly, Mrs. Stillman's letter to her husband is ruled out on the ground that it is a confidential communication, and fun Mickey heard a cracking, ripping "Under my decision, upon the objection of the defendant's counsel, the papers could not be considered upon this motion. Furthermore I sealed the affidavits and other documents because they contained statements neither side could testify to on this motion."

Two important facts were developed by the decision and comment yesterday. In the first place it is recognized that the chances are Mrs. Stillman's letter probably never will be received in evidence. Secondly, the case establishes a precedent. Never before, in this State at least, have mother and child been made codefendants in a divorce action. Justice Morschauser declared that with the exception of Guy, who is only 28 months old, the Stillman children are old enough to decide for themselves with which parent they will live pending that adjudication. He also dwelt upon the fact that Mrs. Stillman is not stung for divorce but pleads recrimination as a defence.
